

I.D.

2008 Annual Design Review Consumer Products

More Categories:  ▼

Design Distinction

Belkin Cable Dome

Among the many cord-management solutions submitted, the jurors were most impressed with Belkin's Cable Dome. A simple half-sphere that Brubach compared to a sliced-up Wiffle ball, the Dome routes cords and manages their excessive lengths. The jurors liked its unobtrusive profile as well as the fact that it can be mounted with screws or heavy-duty double-sided adhesive tape. "Belkin deserves a pat on the back for generally doing excellent stuff," said Barratt.

Design Belkin (Los Angeles): Kenneth Mori, principal designer; Dale Honda, senior mechanical engineer

Materials ABS, Santoprene

Software Pro/Engineer, SolidWorks