Belkin's Bluetooth[®] Music Receiver Plays Music Wirelessly From Your iPhone or iPod Touch Through Your Home Stereo

(Rushden, UK) – 24 February, 2010 – Belkin's new Bluetooth Music Receiver allows you to enjoy your favourite music from your iPhone or iPod touch wirelessly through your home stereo system. The Bluetooth Music Receiver eliminates the need for wires and docking stations, and means you can listen to, and control your music without even getting up from the sofa.

Listening to music from your iPhone or iPod touch through your home stereo system enables you to take advantage of the great quality sound you get from your stereo while controlling your choice of tracks wirelessly from your iPod. Connecting your device couldn't be simpler either, and can be done wirelessly without even going near your stereo.

The Bluetooth Music Receiver can remember up to six paired devices and uses Bluetooth v2.0 to give you reliable, high-quality sound.
