Charge Your iPod and iPhone in the car with Belkin's New Micro Auto Charger and Dual Auto Charger

- Charges your iPhone, iPod, BlackBerry®, or other USB device while you're on the move
- Micro Auto Charger's stylish and practical design cuts down on bulk, sitting almost flush with your dashboard

(Rushden, UK) – 21 April, 2009 – Belkin's new Micro Auto Charger and Dual Auto Charger will keep your iPod, iPhone or BlackBerry charging while you drive, so there's no need to carry bulky chargers and adaptors with you when you travel.

The Micro Auto Charger's compact design sits almost flush against your dashboard, cutting down on unnecessary bulk and untidy cables. It also charges at 1 amp—ideal for iPhone and certain GPS systems, charging at the device's fullest power.

With two USB ports, the Dual Auto Charger lets you charge your iPod through one port while simultaneously charging your mobile phone in the other. One quick-charge port supplies power at 1 amp for your iPhone, and the second port charges at 500 milliamps, which will support iPod devices and your mobile phone or BlackBerry.
